Heather Kennedy
Vice-President, Operational Excellence, Suncor Energy and
Chair, Alberta Chamber of Resources Aboriginal Affairs Committee

Heather grew up in Montreal and was educated as a metallurgical engineer at Queen's University. Prior to joining Suncor, she worked in engineering and management roles for organizations such as Texasgulf Canada (now Kidd Creek Mines) and Fording Coal Ltd. in Ontario and British Columbia, respectively.

Since coming to Suncor in 1996, Heather has worked in process engineering, project management, and senior operations roles in Bitumen Production and the Extraction Plant. She was appointed Vice President of Employee and Community Relations in July, 2003. She assumed her current role as Vice President of Operational Excellence in March of 2007.

In her present role, Heather's focus is largely on ensuring the delivery of operational excellence within the oil sands business through the implementation of the asset management initiative, competency and training governance, shift operations management and the efficient delivery of business services.

In addition to her Oil Sands accountabilities, Heather is the President of the Athabasca Regional Infrastructure Working Group, and serves as a Board member for the Fort McMurray Public Library, and the Fort McMurray United Way.

Heather and her husband, Doug, have two adult children, Meghan and Andrew. Heather's hobbies include sewing, reading, and jogging – and following the Montreal Canadiens.
